

Christina Frith

singer/ songwriter

Christina Frith was born into a creative family from Bermuda, raised in New York City and Bermuda, loved to sing from the earliest age. Her father was the chief designer for Jim Henson's Muppets, and exemplified the importance of contributing meaning to the world through the arts. She was singled out at the age of seventeen amongst the students in her high school to sing at a peace concert with James Taylor and Chaka Khan. This would be the beginning of a devoted career in which she would use her singing and her love of music to serve issues and charities close to her heart.

As an adult, she has been invited to sing at events such as The State of the World Forum, a world-class summit hosted by Mikhail Gorbachev designed for global leaders in world affairs, humanities, sciences and the arts. She was a featured vocalist in Voices of Nine Eleven: A Gathering of Faith, Hope, and Love, at The Washington National Cathedral's commemorative event, honoring the one year anniversary of the international tragedy.

She was a featured performer at the 2005 International Conference for the Institute of Noetic Sciences in Washington, D.C., where she sang in a multicultural musical for which she collaborated as a contributing songwriter, in a performance that earned a standing ovation. Most recently, she has sung on a recording of the song, "Be Still My Soul" with nationally known singer/songwriters Beth Nielsen Chapman and Bonnie Raitt for a tsunami relief project.

Christina regards the singing voice as an instrument of the soul and performs worldwide for concerts whose themes promote social healing, global unity, and universal spirituality. Her voice can be heard on film and television scores, other artist's recordings as well as her two former albums, "Crimson Robe" and "He is the Healer." Christina's most recent recordings are, "You Are Loved," an album of original songs, and, "My Beloved," A compilation of prayers and Writings from spiritual traditions set to original music. Christina can be reached at christinafrithsong@gmail.com .

